Sliders Gone Wild

They have been around for decades as burgers, although we didn't call them sliders. We have all made varying forms of sliders such as salad samplers made on dinner rolls and all of us ate that way while working in kitchens, a quick slice of rib on a dinner roll and so on. But now sliders have arrived. They've been named, and they have found their niche on your whole menu!

They can be marketed for breakfast, lunch, dinner, late night and kids' menus as appetizers, Tapas, entrees and desserts. Yeah, desserts. Take a scoop of ice cream between two fresh baked cookies.

They work great as combo meals with soup and salad. Sell them by the each, by two, by three or more and charge for them that way. Let your customer not only choose the amount, but give them a choice of varieties as well and charge for them that way. Need to hit a price point for a blackboard special? Simply adjust up or down on the number of sliders per plate. You'll make your customers happy and you'll make your numbers! So use sliders to generate excitement and fun for your customers and profits for you!
